

A Blueprint to the Legacy Home Process

Owning and building the custom ski-in/ski-out home of your dreams in Mt. Crested Butte's Prospect neighborhood is easier and more attainable than ever before. At Prospect Development Company we've partnered with some of the best local architects and builders to create a seamless five-step process. Combining drastically lower prices on a good selection of land, availability of the best local contractors and architects, and incentives of two years of Crested Butte Mountain Club membership and two years of taxes paid, the time is now to capture this unique opportunity.

The five-step process is outlined below:

1. TOUR home sites with your broker and preferred architect to brainstorm the possibilities.
2. SELECT a home site with your architect.
3. DESIGN your home and gain approvals with the help of your architect.
4. BUILD your home with preferred contractor/builder and furnish your home. Crested Butte has many fine builders to choose from.
5. ENJOY your legacy property with family and friends for years to come!

In this packet you'll find helpful information for each step of the way, including lists of preferred architects and builder/contractors, as well as FAQ's designed to answer many of your questions. At the back of the packet you will also find information on the Reserve Metropolitan District which is the quasi-governmental body responsible for maintenance of the Prospect neighborhood. All of this information is provided to help you make your selection and enable the building process to be as easy and enjoyable as possible.

A Blueprint to the Legacy Home Process Tour

The first step in building your legacy home is to tour the Prospect neighborhood with your broker and an architect who is familiar with the home sites, the building guidelines and has experience building locally. Bringing an architect into the first step of the process eliminates false-starts and helps visualize a design that matches your lifestyle. From the knowledge of morning light through a kitchen window to deck placement for a sunset view, the architect can walk you through a blueprint of possibilities, making the process not only easy to understand, but enjoyable as you decide what is most important for you and your family.

We recommend the following architects who have built homes not only in Prospect, but in surrounding areas of Crested Butte and in other Colorado areas, such as Beaver Creek, Telluride/Mountain Village and Snowmass. Let their experience take you on a tour.

A Blueprint to the Legacy Home Process    Select

In selecting your home site, you may have basic questions about building in Prospect. The following FAQ's are designed to answer some of those questions.

Q: What is the reason for the HUD Property Report?

A: Due to the size and type of the project and scheduling of the infrastructure in Prospect, we are required by the federal government to provide a HUD Property Report. The report lays out all of the details of the project so the purchaser can be fully informed prior to making a purchasing decision. The HUD Report contains cost estimates for such items as permitting fees, connection fees, and inspection fees.

Q: What utilities are to the home site in Prospect?

A:     Electrical service -- Gunnison County Electric Association
          Telephone -- Qwest Communications, Inc
          Natural Gas -- Atmos Energy
          Water and sewage service -- Mt. Crested Butte Water & Sanitation District.

Q: Is there a required time frame we have to build our home in from the point when we purchase a home site in Prospect?

A: There is no established time frame outlining when you have to build a house from the point at which you purchase your home site.

Q: What are the height restrictions on the homes being built?

A: The maximum height of a single family home being built in Prospect is 35 feet; however, the roof slope determines the maximum height. The Prospect PUD Guide sets forth the definition of how height is measured.

Q: How large of a house can I build? What is the minimum size?

A: The minimum requirement for a single family residence in Prospect is 2,000 sq.ft. Home sites in Wildflower Ridge (D1-D23) have a maximum of 8,000 sq ft. The currently marketed Gunsight Crossing home sites (E home sites) shall not exceed 8000 square feet with the exception of homes on home sites E10, 19, and 20, which can be up to 9,000 sq.ft. These square footages include the garage and mechanical room but not the decks, porches and balconies.

Q: Can anyone ever build on the open space within Prospect?

A: Open Space use and density is generally described in the PUD III guide: designated uses are for winter and summer recreation including hiking and skiing and density is limited to touring or warming huts and other ancillary buildings with approval of the Town of Mt. Crested Butte. Please see the PUD guide and title documents for full information.

A Blueprint to the Legacy Home Process Design

Your architect will play a lead role in helping you design your legacy home in Prospect. From walking you through the permit and approval process to helping select your contractor, your architect's advice will steer you on a course ensuring your building timeline remains on schedule and on budget.

Q: Tell me about the design guidelines.

A: This is a covenant-controlled community with comprehensive design guidelines; a copy can be made available to you. These basic guidelines were created to ensure the aesthetic integrity of the community and the long term appeal of the neighborhood. Building may commence after all required building permits and approvals are obtained from the Town of Mt. Crested Butte and from the Prospect at Mt. Crested Butte Design Review Board (DRB). A Colorado licensed architect must design your home and must follow the Prospect Design Review Guidelines, including a Preliminary Design Review and a Final Design Review with the DRB. Approvals from the Town of Mt. Crested Butte should run concurrently with the DRB review. A Review Checklist Package is provided in the Prospect Design Guidelines.

Q: Can I cut down the trees that are on my home site?

A: Although the removal of trees on a home site is to be avoided whenever possible, the Design Review Board may approve tree removal and/or selective tree thinning within the Home site/Building Envelope. The DRB will approve tree removal and/or thinning outside the Home site Building Envelope only if such removal or thinning clearly improves view corridors, solar exposure or other characteristics of the site, provided that such removal or thinning does not significantly increase visual impacts from adjacent residential home sites, public or outdoor common areas. See the Prospect Design Guidelines for full information.

Q: What are the basic guidelines for landscaping?

A: Guidelines for landscaping and site grading are all contained in the Prospect Design guidelines. Plant palettes, design considerations, and landscaping within nature's envelope are all covered in the Guidelines. A copy of the Guidelines is available for your consideration. Your architect may recommend a landscape architect.

A Blueprint to the Legacy Home Process

The Metro District

You've completed your home. What's in the future? Careful planning on the part of the developer and the Town of Mt. Crested Butte will help ensure your home is part of a legacy community. To support the quality of life expected by legacy home owners, the improvements, maintenance and overall quality of the neighborhood is administered by The Reserve Metropolitan Districts. The following FAQs will provide some of the details about how the Metro Districts operate.

Q: What is a Metro District? How does it benefit the Owners?

A: A Metropolitan or Metro District is a quasi-governmental organization with taxing authority that is created to fund and administer services for the betterment of a particular neighborhood or community.

Q: What type of communities use metro districts?

A: Many of the finest resort neighborhoods in the West are governed by metro districts because they provide more power and flexibility than traditional homeowners associations. Examples of metro districts in Colorado include: Bachelor Gulch Village in Beaver Creek, Mountain Village Metro District in Telluride and Aspen Village Metro.

Q: Who controls a metro district?

A: In most situations, a board of directors controls the metro district. These members are elected by property owners within that metro district.

Q: How is the metro district funded?

A: A mill levy is added to the property tax bill and the resources from that levy are used to fund construction, maintenance and operational costs within the district.

Q: What are the funds from the mill levy used for?

A: In the early stages of large developments, most of the funds in metro districts go towards the repayment of bonds that were used to finance infrastructure such as water, sewer, gas, electricity, phones, bridges, drainage and roads. As the community matures and more homes are completed, the mill levy is often reduced to an amount that is sufficient to fund ongoing services and special neighborhood amenities. Examples of these types of amenities include recreation centers, skating rinks, special events such as concerts, enhanced landscaping, walking trails, parks, property protection, common area maintenance, and club houses to name a few.

Q: What are the HOA Fees?

A: Currently there is no Homeowner's Association fee in place. While there may be a small fee in the future, the Reserve Metro Districts will likely take care of many of the normal services that an HOA would provide such as snowplowing, road maintenance, and landscaping. There are two property owners associations in place in Prospect, and all owners are members of both Associations. The North Mt. Crested Butte Owners Association does charge a 2% assessment on the sale of property in Prospect which is paid from the closing, and which is currently pledged to the Metro Districts for operational costs.

Q: When do I start paying taxes on my home site? How much are they?

A: Your obligation to pay property taxes for your home site begins upon transfer of title to your home site. They are payable to Gunnison County which collects the ad valorem real estate taxes on behalf of all taxing authorities. For 2009 the tax rate was 93.846 mills, which is $93.846 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Of the 93.846 mills, the Town of Mt. Crested Butte accounts for 10.378 mills, the Reserve Metro District accounts for 38.000 mills, Gunnison school district accounts for 23.505 mills and other taxing authorities, such as the Colorado River Water District accounts for the remainder. The Reserve Metro District has reduced the mill levy from an original 50 mills to the current 38 mills. Under Colorado Law prior to building a residence on your home site, the assessed valuation of your home site will be approximately 29% (residential assessment ratio) of its fair market value. After the residence is built, the residential assessment ratio decreases to approximately 7.96% of its fair market value. The Reserve Metro District maximum mill levy is 50 mills and can fluctuate up to this maximum over time. Please see the following example:

	Actual Value *	Assessment Ratio =	Assessed Value *	Mill Levy =	Annual Tax
Unimproved Land	$ 825,980	29%	$ 239,530	0.093846	$ 22,478
Land with Improvements	$ 2,517,960	7.96%	$ 200,430	0.093846	$ 18,809

These values are for example only. Actual values will be determined by the Gunnison County Assessor and will vary from this example.

The above examples are from actual records of Prospect home sites. For complete information on taxing authorities, you may call the Gunnison County Assessor's office at 970.641.1085 or visit their website at www.gunnisoncounty.org/assessor.
